

ABSTRACT

The present invention provides a vaccine which is capable of inhibiting the growth and formation of tumors which can express an endogenous tumor specific protein. Also 5 disclosed are methods of administering the vaccine to a subject bearing a tumor whose formation and growth is inhibited by the vaccine.